MAX WILLIAMS

When someone mentioned that the city of Dallas had been awarded a franchise in a new professional basketball league, Max Williams wasn't interested in details.

"All I wanted to know was who to call," remembered Max, a man who always liked to use a fast break. But it appeared for a while that the former SMU cage star would have been better off with a wrong number. At 28 years old, Williams had shucked a profitable business as a metals buyer in Old Mexico to return to Dallas and gamble on a pro basketball team.

Las Vegas won't even quote you those kind of odds.

To say that the club was formed on a shaky foundation, wouldn't even be telling half the story, but through Williams' persistence as operations manager the Dallas franchise survived, with life finally assured when a questionable California ownership was bought out by Dallas people.

"Without Max Williams, Dallas would never have had a team in the ABA," former commissioner George Mikan once said. And, for once, Mikan was right. During one particularly troubled period, when it was evident that the California owners didn't have the proper financing and current Dallas owners weren't in the picture yet, Williams spent $1200 of his own money in one month on telephone calls trying to locate prospective basketball players.

Now some three years later, with the title of general manager, things are a bit more secure for Max Williams. But he still doesn't consider his decision of three years ago a gamble.

"It was something that I wanted to do, something that I knew that I would be happy doing," noted Williams. "When you are involved in something that you feel confident in, you always enjoy it more. And this is the feeling I have about basketball."

Assuming the general manager's post of a pro basketball team at 28 years old, may seem like a large step, but then Williams has been keeping a rapid pace all his life.

An All-Southwest Conference basketball player for three years at SMU when he graduated in 1960 at age 22, Williams was president of a construction company by age 24 and then at 27 headed an outfit that bought materials from mining companies all over Northern Mexico.

With that job he was piloting his own airplane in and out of mountainous areas, with a landing strip depending on where he could find a flat piece of land in most cases. So naturally, wife Carolyn was in complete agreement with the move back to Dallas and the Williams family, which also includes son Wayne, 8, and daughter Laura, 3, now resides in North Dallas.

Max has actually carried the Chaps' general manager's responsibilities almost from the very birth of the ABA, so there's no one that knows the Dallas operation any more thoroughly.

"There's no way to define the duties of a general manager because they are so varied," Williams noted. "But I think to be a good one you have to be prepared to cope with each problem as it comes up and handle it as diplomatically as possible. First, though, you have to be a businessman, just like any downtown merchant. In a store, if the stock is not selling you bring in something else. In pro basketball, the stock is the players, and you can take an inventory every time they go on the court. If the inventory isn't acceptable, then it's my job, through trades and other deals, to make it acceptable."

Of course, all trades come after consulting with coach Cliff Hagan and the Chaps have done remarkably well in the dealer's market the past two seasons. Williams has never hesitated to put frontliners up for grabs if it was felt necessary and through Dallas' great success in the college draft, the Chaps seem to always come up with a backlog of draft choices because of trades.

In this area, Williams considers his two top achievements as the acquisition of center Manny Leaks from New York for a fourth round draft choice and the drafting and signing of guards Ron Boone and Glen Combs after the first season.

"But then there are mistakes, also," added Williams. "I gave Denver a draft choice for Larry Bunce last season and we should have gotten him as a free agent. Then a lot of people questioned the Bob Verga for Bob Bedell deal. But I disagree there. Without hesitation, I think we did the right thing."

And Max Williams has made a habit of doing the right thing.

LEE MEADE

Lee Meade, joining the Chaparrals as Assistant General Manager, brings with him more than 20 years' experience as a newspaper man and public relations executive.

As sports editor of The Denver Post when the ABA was formed in 1967, Meade quickly recognized the potential of the nation's youngest professional major league. He helped establish the Denver Rockets as one of the ABA's most successful franchises, then joined the league office as assistant to the commissioner and director of public relations.

Meade apprenticed as a printer at his hometown of Litchfield, Minn., before working as a sports writer for the St. Cloud (Minn.) Times and as sports editor of the West Central Minnesota Daily Tribune in Willmar, Minn. He was also sports editor of the Lafayette (La.) Daily Advertiser, a sports writer for the Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise and assistant sports editor of the Lake Charles (La.) American Press. He was a sports slotman and assistant city editor of The Denver Post before becoming sports editor in 1965. He attended college as a pre-law major at St. Cloud (Minn.) State, Lamar Tech in Beaumont and McNeese State in Lake Charles.

Meade is married to the former Helen Wulf of Willmar, Minn. They have four children: a son, Matt, 12, and three daughters, Sallye, 9, Leslie, 6, and Lisa, 5.

E. O. (Doc) HAYES

E. O. Doc Hayes, builder of basketball champions for 35 years on Texas collegiate and high school fronts, became the Director of Player Scouting for the Dallas Chaparrals in September after 22 years as coach of Southern Methodist University. During his tenure as head

TOOLE

Coach at SMU, Doc's teams won or shared in a record eight Southwest Conference Crowns. His last championship team at SMU defeated Louisville with Wes Unseld in the 1967 NCAA Regional Semi-finals and was barely beaten by Houston in the finals. General Manager Max Williams who played for Hayes from 56-60 said in announcing the hiring of Hayes, "when you bring men of Doc's caliber in, it's a reflection on just how well pro basketball in Dallas and the ABA is doing." One of Hayes' main duties will be as the club's chief talent scout, working with Cliff Hagan in trying to locate the top pro prospects in the college ranks. Hayes is a native of Crum, Texas, and a graduate of North Texas State. He is married to the former Kathleen Lockhart of Tyler, Texas. The Hayes have two sons, John and Dick, and seven grandchildren.

JOHN LALLY

One of the most vibrant personalities in the Chaparral organization belongs to team trainer John Lally. Lally, only 25, has already spent four years in the Chicago Cubs baseball organization training with Dallas-Ft. Worth and the San Antonio Missions, and was the trainer during the first two Chaparral seasons. His duties with the Chaparrals became year round at the end of this past season when he ended his association with the Cubs. Cincy Powell expressed the feeling of the players recently when he claimed, "John could make a great stand-up comedian." Good humor and wit have made him one of the most popular members of the team. Originally from Fort Worth, Lally attended T. C. U. where he worked under Elmer Brown. He is single, and now makes his home in Dallas.

RUSS FAGAN

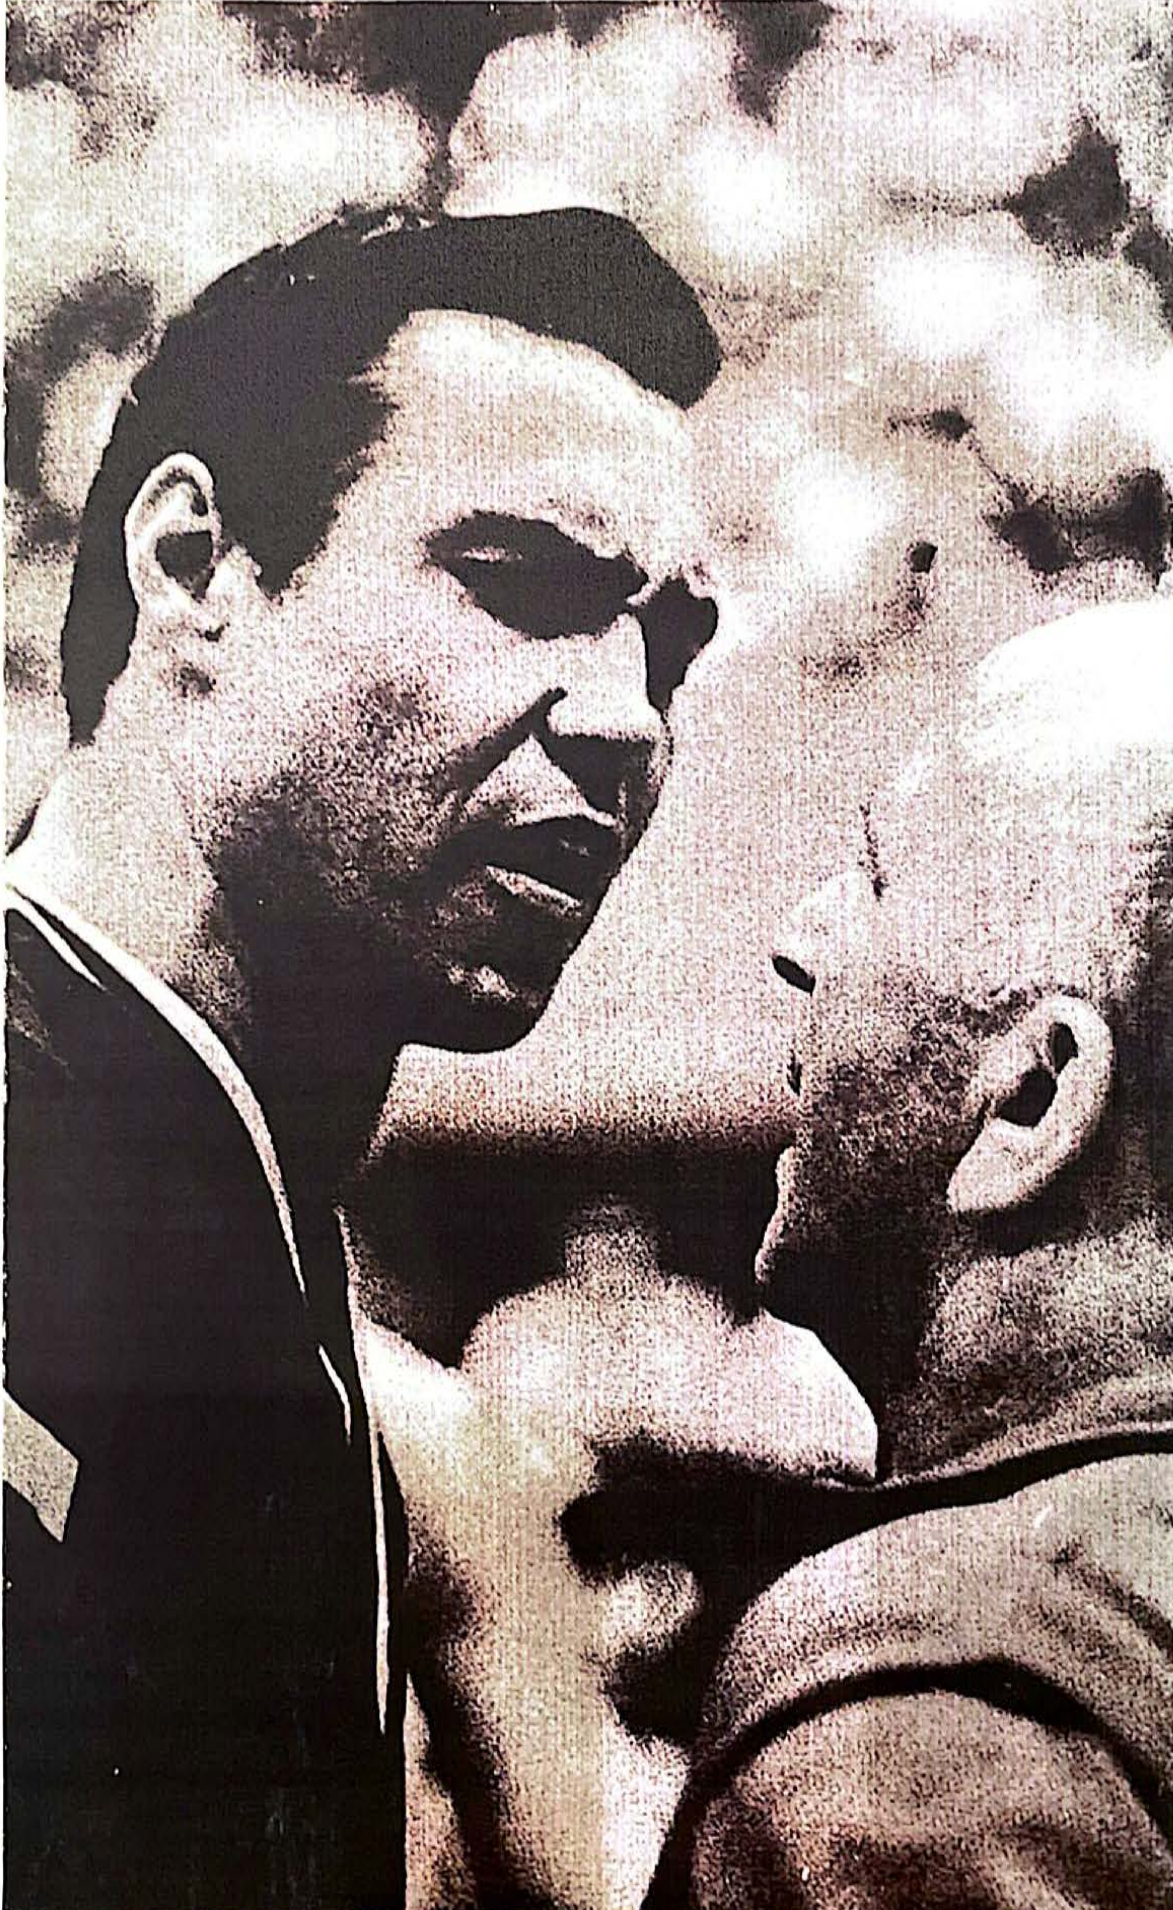
Russ Fagan was a busy man this past season. He used great energy and enthusiasm in helping the team with publicity and promotions and still found time to run his own public relations firm, "Better Ideas Advertising" and start a weekly newspaper, the Dallas Independent Press. Being busy is nothing new for Fagan, 33, who attended the University of Denver where he majored in Business Administration. He has owned his own business in Kansas City and worked on a Dallas newspaper. Russ spends much of his time for the Chaparrals working on special events. General Manager Max Williams called Fagan "one of the most valuable men in my entire organization. I have never called on Russ to help that he didn't respond beyond the call of duty." Fagan is married to the former Delores Robinson, and they have a daughter, Ruschelle, 12, and a son Don, 4.

SUE TOOLE

The young lady who answers the phones and letters at the Chaparral office is Sue Toole, a former law secretary. Sue's long term tenure as the Chaparrals' secretary and her many responsibilities have made her one of the most important members of the organization.

Sue, originally from Virginia, moved to Texas in 1963. She worked with an East Texas law firm during her first days in Texas, and for the next three years, lived in Corpus Christi. While her husband attended college on a basketball scholarship, she was Secretary to the Registrar and attended evening classes herself at the University of Corpus Christi.

Sue and her husband Lonnie, currently associated with Trinity Mortgage Company of Dallas, reside in Garland.



CLIFFORD O. HAGAN

"Cliff" Age: 38 Height: 6-4 Weight: 215

Born in Owensboro, Kentucky, on December 9, 1931
Residence: Dallas, Texas
College: University of Kentucky, 1955
Pro Experience: The St. Louis Hawks from 1956 to 1966
Dallas Chaparrals 1967 to 1969

Now more coach than player, Cliff Hagan is still one of the ABA's active legends.

While Hagan's brilliant playing earned him fame and many honors in pro basketball, his competitiveness, dedication, and abilities as a coach are beginning to win new credits for himself and the Chaparrals.

Hagan, in his third season as coach of the Chaparrals, is one of only three survivors from the original eleven coaches of the league in 1967. "Babe" McCarthy at New Orleans and Jim Pollard at Miami are the senior members of the circuit.

Hagan's first two Chaparral teams have both had winning years and earned playoff berths in the Western Division. Hagan's work in 1967-68 earned him the acclaim of the Texas Sportswriters Association as Pro Coach of the Year in the state.

As long as Hagan continues to wear the magic Number 16, there will always be excitement about his playing and speculation about new milestones. There's one achievement that is within reach of Hagan's talents, one that under the right circumstances could come this year.

The Chaparral player-coach is only 147 points away from a career total of 15,000 points, a charmed circle that includes only 13 players in the history of the pro game.

"Of course, I've thought about it. Everyone else has, too. It's a thing that gets a lot of discussion so I'm well aware of it," said Hagan. "I'd like to get it . . . I don't know what it would mean or even if it would mean anything but I think it's something that involves a lot of personal pride."

With just 147 points standing between him and the magic number, it would seem almost a certainty that Hagan would reach that total this year. But then there's the question of just how much Cliff plans to participate as an active player this season.

At age 38, Hagan is still bothered by the back injury that kept him under wraps most of last season, and in pre-season discussions this fall, he was rather emphatic in stating that he intended to concentrate mainly on coaching.

"If I play, it will be in appearances at home and even then I'm going to pick the spots. I don't plan to come in like in the past but mainly when we are either out of a game or have one won. As a contributing player I don't feel that I can be as effective as in the past."

This policy would be a continuation from last season when Hagan kept himself on the bench in the latter stages of the campaign, after playing a sixth man role in early season games.

The point total now stands at 14,853, a number that represents 12 years of basketball at its best. Some of those points have contributed to world championships and others to divisional titles in a 10-year

Rookie

"Chaps Land Vandy's Hagan" by Jim Brannan.

The Dallas Chaparrals have signed Tom Hagan, their number one draft choice, and the Vanderbilt ace has more in common with head coach Cliff Hagan than his name.

Both hail from Kentucky although they are not related.

"People have been trying to make us kinfolks for a long time," said Cliff. "When Tom was younger he probably didn't mind people in Kentucky asking him if we were related. As he got to be a better and better player, I certainly didn't mind it when they asked me.

"Now I suppose everyone will be saying again we are related. I don't mind if they say we're cousins or even brothers, but I get downright mad when they start asking if he's my son."

But Cliff couldn't have been any happier had it been his own son who signed with the Chaps.

"Tom can really be an asset to the team," he said. "He's a big (6-3), strong (190) player who has the tools. Not only is he a good playmaker guard, but he is an exceptional shooter. He hit 50 per cent from the field and 87 per cent of his free throws at Vanderbilt. Of course, Tom, like the other players on the team, will have to make a spot for himself on the team."

"I'm extremely happy to be signing with Dallas and the ABA," said Tom. "I've heard nothing but good reports about Dallas, and I'm impressed with the ABA. It's on the rise, and right now I think it offers as much challenge as does the NBA for young players."

Career Highlights: Second highest career scorer in Vanderbilt cage history with a total of 1,514 in his three varsity years . . . Captain of team his senior year, and chosen to the All-Conference team in each of his three varsity years . . . Named to various All-America and All-Star teams . . . named MVP in Hawaiian All-Star tournament in which most of the top collegiate players throughout the nation participated.

Personal Highlights: Married to the former Betty Carol McMilan of Nashville, Tennessee.

Residence: Dallas, Texas
College: Southern Methodist University, 1967
Pro Experience: 2 years in ABA - Dallas

"Charlie Beasley gave a steady performance . . . a standout sixth man all season . . . normally logs as much playing time as Boone or Combs." Dallas Morning News.

Moving from a starter in 1967-68 to the sixth man this past season didn't take any of the edge off Charlie Beasley's ability or desire. Playing 1200 minutes less than last year, Charlie still averaged 8 pts. a game and was second on the team with 208 assists. Beasley was extremely valuable to Dallas throughout the year as that needed man who could come off the bench and play well from a cold start. Although such statistics as steals are not kept in the league, Charlie would probably lead in that category. He has the uncanny ability to anticipate where the ball is going to be and then materialize out of nowhere for a steal.

In December, Beasley suffered a foot injury at Oakland which hampered him early in the season. Prior to the injury, Beasley had scored 35 pts. against Los Angeles in the L.A. Sports Arena, the second time in his career to score 35.

Season Highlights: Ranked 2nd in assists on team. Scored 35 pts. against L. A. on November 6 in L. A. Sports Arena . . . hitting 17 of 18 free throws.

Career Highlights: ABA Free Throw Champion in 1967-68. Holds club record for most assists in single game, 13, on 11-13-67. Third All-Time Scorer in SMU's history. MVP at SMU in 1966. Single. Entered Insurance Business this past summer.

"Only John Beasley carried the Dallas Chaparrals colors into the ABA All-Star contest . . . but never have so many been represented so well, by so few." Randy Galloway, Dallas Morning News.

John Beasley added new fame to an already outstanding basketball career when he was voted the Most Valuable Player in the 2nd ABA All-Star game at Louisville, Kentucky, January 28. Beasley's 19 points and 14 rebounds helped lift the West to a 133 to 127 victory over a strong East squad. The MVP award came to Beasley mid-way of his second season of pro ball. In his first year in the ABA he was a member of the All-Star team, Second team All-Pro, and was ranked high in every rebounding, shooting, and scoring category. And this past season was no different. Beasley again led Dallas in rebounding and total points scored. He ranked behind only Hawkins, Daniels, and Barry in voting for front line pro honors.

Although Beasley moved from center to forward in 1968-69, he still grabbed 830 rebounds for a 10.6 average, 11th best in the league. Beasley led Dallas in nearly a dozen different categories including minutes played and best percentages in field goal and free throw shooting.

Season Highlights: 16th in league in scoring. 11th in rebounding. 6th in free throw accuracy. MVP All-Star game. 2nd team All-Pro. Scored 42 points against Oakland, 2-24-69. Had 30 points and 20 rebounds against Minnesota, Feb. 12. Had 37 games of 20 or more points. 6 games of 30 or better. 1 game of 40 or better. Had 45 games with 10 or more rebounds.

Career Highlights: Greatest scorer in the history of Texas A&M and the greatest scorer in a single season in the Conference. Three times All-Conference. Played for Phillips Oilers 1966-67. AAU All-American. Holds BA degree from Texas A&M where he was listed as a distinguished student. Maintained "A" average in 1965-66. Who's Who in American Colleges in 1966. Married to former Janice Mills of Linden, Texas. Daughter Kim, 6.

Pro Experience: 1 year in ABA - Dallas

"Run, Rookie, Run" Title of story by Bob St. John.

For any rookie it would have been a good year. For an 8th round draft choice, it was fantastic. All Ron Boone did in his first season of pro ball was average 18.9 points and 4 assists per game. He ranked 19th in the league in scoring and 9th in assists. The only rookie to outscore Boone was Rookie-of-the-Year Warren Armstrong of Oakland. Boone's sensational year earned him a place on the All-Rookie Team and makes him a candidate for league stardom this season.

Boone set several Chaparral club and homecourt records during the season. He had 32 consecutive free throws without a miss in a four game stretch, scored 14 field goals in one half against Houston in the final game of the season, and had a 24 point quarter against the Mavericks the same night.

Season Highlights: 19th in League in scoring. 3rd for Dallas. Led Dallas in assists. 9th in League. Had 43 games of 20 or better. 6 games of 30 or better. Scored pro high of 35 against Houston, Dec. 21, 1968. Holds club record of 32 consecutive free throws without a miss.

Personal: Single. Was presented award by Omaha Urban League, along with Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals and three other athletes for their contribution to sports.

ROBERT GEORGE BEDELL

"Bob" Age: 25 Height: 6-7 Weight: 205

Born at Los Angeles, California, June 26, 1944
Residence: Bell Gardens, California
College: Stanford, 1966
Pro Experience: 2 years in ABA - Anaheim (1), Dallas (1)

"Bedell is a Surprise" Headlines, Dallas Times Herald.
". . it has been the surprisingly strong play of Bedell which provided the Chaps with the extra spark." Jim Brannan, Dallas Times Herald.

Bob Bedell took sitting on the bench for 42 games of the season and seeing only 479 minutes of action in stride. He was quoted early in the year, "I don't mind being a substitute . . . eventually I will get a chance."

And so he did. Late in the season, Bedell was used to back up either Cincy Powell or John Beasley and performed well. But in the playoffs against New Orleans, he played like a whirlwind and became a valuable property. Against New Orleans, he logged 148 minutes of action, averaged 13 points and 7 rebounds, and led the team in field goal percentage.

Bedell had come to Dallas from Denver in the Bob Verga trade after spending his first year in the league with Anaheim. The play of Bedell in the playoffs has given him new stature in the eyes of Coach Cliff Hagan, and should earn him a chance to play a big role in next season's campaign. Bedell is a rangy, sharpshooting forward and is not afraid to battle the boards.

Although not expected to oust either Beasley or Powell as a starter, Bedell should once again provide a strong second wind for the Dallas front line.

Season Highlights: Scored 21 points and took 12 rebounds in 6th game of playoffs against New Orleans as Dallas won 136-118. Had 19 points in 2nd game against Bucs.

GLEN COURTNEY COMBS

"Glen" Age: 23 Height: 6-2 Weight: 185

Born in Hazard, Kentucky, October 30, 1946
Residence: Carr Creek, Kentucky
College: Virginia Tech, 1968
Pro Experience: 1 year in ABA - Dallas

"Chaps' Combs Has Hot Hand". Times Herald Headline.
"Combs became a permanent fixture on January 14 when he went 53 minutes in the team's overtime win over Minnesota." Galloway, Dallas Morning News.

From a cold night in Duluth until Dallas bowed out of the Western Division playoffs in April, 23 year-old Glen Combs was to average 22 points a game, rise to second in the league in 3-point shooting, and lead the Chaparrals' playoff scoring.

Combs had been a 7th round draft choice from Virginia Tech and was considered a good long range shooting guard, but no one knew just how good. "We drafted Glen specifically because he was a fine shooter," said Hagan, "and the fact he's able to do everything so well has come as a surprise. Glen is a hardnosed type of player without being physically built for that role."

Combs' long range accuracy gave Dallas its first real three point threat and by season's end, Combs was only a shade behind Darel Carrier of Kentucky in 3-pt. shooting percentage.

With a year's experience and the confidence of a successful beginning, Combs seems headed for stardom in the ABA.

Season Highlights: Led Dallas in scoring during playoffs with 22.2 average. Scored 40 points against New Orleans on April 15, in 6th game of playoffs. Had 24 games of 20 or better during regular season including 7 of 30 or better. Scored 37 against Minnesota in February for regular season high. 2nd in League in 3-pt. shooting. All-ABA Rookie 2nd Team choice behind Warren Armstrong and teammate, Ron Boone.

Career Highlights: 5th round draft pick of San Diego. Father is Superintendent of Carr Creek School System after 25 years as head basketball coach. Married college sweetheart Marsha McNeil of Roanoke, Virginia, in July.

"Manny" Age: 23 Height: 6-8 Weight: 225

Born at Cleveland, Ohio on November 27, 1945
Residence: Cleveland, Ohio
College: Niagara, 1968
Pro Experience: 1 year in ABA - Ky. - N.Y. - Dallas

"What it amounted to was stealing . . . Trading Manny Leaks for a fourth round draft choice has to be a capital crime." Galloway, Dallas Morning News.

Crime does pay . . . at least in the Manny Leaks deal. For a fourth round draft choice, Dallas literally stole Manny Leaks from the New York Nets.

The talented rookie center who was drafted by Kentucky and traded to New York early in the year, stepped into the Dallas lineup February 16, and helped lift Dallas to 17 victories in the last month of the season. Leaks averaged 10 points a game and 9 rebounds in winning the starting center's job away from number one draft choice John Smith.

The real rewards of the Leaks trade should be realized this year. Manny is one of the best jumpers in the league and plays much taller than his 6-8. He can play forward or center. He has a good shooting touch (50.2% field goals with Dallas in 27 games) and is a terrific rebounder. All of this is backed up by ambition and desire.

Leaks was able to thank New York for trading him by scoring 19 points and grabbing 27 rebounds (1 shy of Club record) March 14. Earlier he had 22 points and 7 rebounds against the Nets. Playing with Dallas against Kentucky (the team that originally drafted him), Manny hit for 17 points and took down 9 rebounds as the Chaps beat the Colonels 104-100.

Season Highlights: Top 20 rebounders in ABA. 3rd best rebounder in league among rookies.

Career Highlights: Averaged 17 pts. and 16 rebounds his senior year at Niagara. Earned Bachelor of Arts Degree in Sociology. Single.

REINHOLD D. LOCHMANN

Born at Wichita, Kansas, on May 26, 1944
Residence: Wichita, Kansas
College: University of Kansas, 1966
Pro Experience: 2 years in ABA - Dallas

"Riney Lochmann . . . was a surprise starter . . . but gave a strong performance." Dallas Morning News.
"Riney gives us speed and defense at the same time." Cliff Hagan.

Riney Lochmann is one of only four veterans who date back to the first Chaparrals' season. In fact, Lochmann is the only player who has been suited and ready for action in all 187 games played by Dallas in the last two years. Every other player has missed one or more games.

Although Lochmann's defensive abilities are unquestioned, his offensive talents became apparent last season when he was called on to start at forward on several occasions. Against Denver, he scored 18 points in less than three quarters and scored in double figures on other starting nights. Lochmann provides Dallas with a strong running game because of his speed and he often scores off the fast break.

Although not a great jumper and only 6-6, Riney is more than an adequate rebounder — utilizing good basketball knowledge and strength to outrebound taller opponents.

Season Highlights: 18 points against Denver, Nov. 16, 1968, which set personal pro scoring mark.

Career Highlights: Co-Captain and MVP at Kansas as a senior. Married to the former Norma Schraeder of Wichita, Kansas.

Born at Gadsden, Alabama, May 22, 1947
Residence: Gadsden, Alabama
College: Alabama State, 1969
Rookie

One of the nation's top collegiate basketball players in 1968-69. Sixth round draft pick of Dallas . . . Second of Baltimore . . . Three-time NAIA All-America . . . One of the highest scorers in NAIA history . . . Second in nation in scoring both in Junior and Senior years among small college players . . . In 1967-68 he was second to Henry Logan of Western Carolina now playing with Washington; and this past season finished second to Ken Hall of Westminster. Averaged 35.5 as a junior at Alabama State; and 33.1 as a senior . . . Hit 51.6% from field during senior year. Willie seemed headed for Baltimore when he made a visit to Dallas and soon after inked a contract with the Chaparrals . . . Single.

CINCINNATUS POWELL

"Cincy", "C" Age: 27 Height: 6-7 Weight: 227

Born in Baton Rouge, Louisiana on February 25, 1942
Residence: Dallas, Texas
College: University of Portland, 1966
Pro Experience: 3 years (1 year NABL, 2 years ABA) Dallas

"In most circles it's generally felt that as Powell goes, so go the Chaps . . . and both parties have been on a skyrocket ride of late." Galloway, Dallas Morning News.

What began as a troubled year for Cincy Powell ended with a scoring spree that gave him the Club's best scoring average for 1968-69. An off-season foot operation, illness at the start of the season, and a 10-day suspension in December kept Powell from arriving at his playing peak until after January. But when Powell got his playing legs under him, Dallas began to win.

In the last forty-five games of the season with Cincy leading the way, Dallas won 28 games and forced New Orleans to the seventh game in the Western play-offs. It was Big "C's" corner jump shot in the last second of overtime against Minnesota that broke the Chaps' ten-game losing streak in January.

In the last two months of the campaign, Powell had only two games in which he was not in double figures in scoring and only four in which he did not score at least 14. During the last month, he averaged 22 points and 8 rebounds a game.

Powell remains one of the most exciting players to the fans of the ABA and if he can perform up to his ability from the start, All-Star and All-Pro honors could fall his way this year.

Season Highlights: 15th in League in Scoring. Best scoring average for Dallas. Had 39 games in which he scored 20 or better. 6 games of 30 or better. Had season high of 37 points against New York, March 4. Scored 24 points and had 23 rebounds (Career high) against Kentucky, February 2, in Louisville.

Career Highlights: Holds Dallas Chaparrals scoring record (43 against Denver in February, 1968). 2nd Team All-Pro 1968. Captain at Portland University. Most Valuable Player at Battle Creek in NABL in 1966. Married to the former Faye Jean Waldon of Portland, Oregon. Children are Kimberly, 4 years old; and Cincy, Jr., 1 year old.

Born at Columbus, Mississippi, May 24, 1944
Residence: Muskegon, Michigan
College: Southern Colorado State College, 1968

"Chaps in Control . . . Smith on Patrol". Headline, Dallas Times Herald.
". . . On occasion Smith has shown signs of the brilliance that had been hoped for when he was made the club's number one draft pick." Galloway, Dallas Morning News.

It was an inconsistent year for John Smith, Jr., the 7 foot rookie center of the Dallas Chaparrals. Although Smith had the 12th best rebounding record in the ABA and set the single game club record for rebounds (28) during 1968-69, he still lacked the game to game greatness expected of him.

Smith had 10 games where he grabbed 16 or more rebounds and on 6 occasions, had 20 or better. Against New York and New Orleans at the end of November, Smith had 49 rebounds in back to back performances. At Miami in March, Smith had 14 points and 22 rebounds and blocked what could have been the winning Miami shot in the last second of the game. Yet by season's end, Smith had lost his starting role to the ambitious rookie, Manny Leaks. And in the playoff series against New Orleans, Smith, hindered by a strained back, was completely ineffective.

If John Smith can find the desire to make his great ability more than an occasional event, the Chaparrals would find themselves with less problems and more victories.

Season Highlights: 12 in ABA in rebounding. 2nd leading rebounder for Chaparrals. 41 games with 10 or more rebounds. Holds Club record for most rebounds in single game, 28. Most offensive rebounds in single game, 14. Holds record for most fouls in a season, 328; and disqualifications, 19.

Career Highlights: 1st team NCAA District VII in 1968. Most points scored (45) against Western New Mexico. Hobby, drag car racing. Married to former Rosemary Cross of Muskegon Heights, Mich., and they have three children — Kevin, 5; Michelle, 3½; and Mary, 1.

Dallas Chaparrals on your Dial

TERRY STEMBRIDGE

The 1969-70 broadcast schedule of Dallas Chaparral basketball again includes the play-by-play of all exhibition and regular season games. In the past two years, 187 consecutive broadcasts have been aired on KRLD, 1080, the "Voice of Pro Basketball in the Southwest." The Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Dallas and Van Winkle Pontiac have purchased major radio rights for the entire season. Terry Stembridge will be starting his third season as the Voice of the Chaparrals. Terry served in the dual role of play-by-play announcer and publicity director for the team until this past October when he realigned his duties to devote full time to a broadcasting career. He is one of only two sportscasters who date back to the first ABA season. In fact, Terry has announced more games than any other announcer in the league, not having missed a single game in the Club's history. Terry is a former school teacher from Kilgore, Texas, who joined the team in August of 1967. He was recently married to the former Cheryl Runnels of Kilgore. They now live in Dallas.

KRLD again will be the primary outlet for Chaparral play-by-play although half a dozen or more games will also be broadcast by WRR-AM (1310) in Dallas.
